
O.K. Garage

Never mind MGM Home Entertainment's deceptive cover art and a new title that try to promote this as a Gone in 60 Seconds knock-off; in reality this is a fine, character driven film with memorably quirky characters and a nice feel for emotional vulnerability. Brandon Cole, who co-wrote John Turturro's directorial efforts Mac and Illuminata, made his own debut in the director's chair with this film. Turturro stars as a romantically incompetent welder who reluctantly comes to the aid of a school teacher (Lili Taylor) who has been victimized by a corrupt car repair shop. Will Patton is fantastic as their lizard loving friend with his own problems with the opposite sex. Originally titled O.K. Garage.
